

Isabeella Beumer – Voice art

„Musical Realms of Breath and Voice which enable us to question our conditioned Perception of Time, Space and Place...”

Sounds from another time – this is the impression left behind by the tones which voice artist isabeella beumer places into musical space. It is a challenge to find one’s own story inside a labyrinth of tone, to be carried along by the flood of the heard and to question place and space. We encounter sounds produced with hardly comprehensible vocal techniques. [NDR – Norddeutscher Rundfunk] isabeella beumer has an immense spectrum of vocal articulation. Her range of harmonic tones is one of a hardly graspable richness. The clearly audible “underquint” seems like a bourdon with which she accompanies her own singing. [R.Spring, Musical Scientist]

An archaeological site of subconscious processes is made available to the listener by this purely vocal acoustic experience. beumer is working with a “cosmically-existential language”[Carlfriedrich Claus] which primarily puts itself across though the emotional field ; across the psycho-physical tensions between man and matter. [Neue Zeitschrift für Musik]

Where sounds and seemingly pre-lingual, word like texts appear – particularly as they combine with vocal tone, we leave reality behind (...) The one or other may have vague difficulties at first hearing - but he or she will quickly be surrounded, almost stunned, by tones. Carried away by fantasies of sound-combinations which seem inexhaustible. A masterpiece of the human voice and musical magic. [basel ka-kultur.e]

As a sound-poet, isabeella beumer is musician and musical instrument at the same time. She is one among the best vocal artists and sound-poets of the 20th/21st century. [Ch.Goller-Intern. Voices Festival Innsbruck]

As voice-artist, composer of acoustic acts and also author, isabeella beumer is a voice on international stages – be it in “new music”, sound-art and free jazz. She works with her voice - her instrument of singing and speech - in the most extreme ranges on concerts, musical theatres and reading performances. Numerous broadcasts at international television- and radio stations are documents of her work.

She studied interdisciplinary art, music and literature in Vienna from 1993-1996 in intensive collaboration with H.C. Artmann, Ginka Steinwachs, Allen Ginsberg, Blixa Bargeld & Gerh. Rühm. She further worked together with composers and musicians like among others Vinko Globokar (CD recordings –nu-), Johannes Fritsch, Jörg Widmann, Michael Riessler, Simon Stockhausen, Nicolaus Richter de Vroe, Irvine Arditti, Mike Svoboda, Isao Nakamura, as well as with the symphony orchestra of the Bayrischer Rundfunk.

Performance extracts are preserved for posterity in the renowned "Ed Sanders Videolibrary for Soundpoetry in Woodstock - New York“.

Her sound-art compositions awaken interest all over the world and are broadcasted internationally. Her participation in international festivals for voice art, soundpoetry, sound-art and new music in Europe and Asia underline her particular vocal quality.
